-Honokono, June 11mm, 1877.

Until the last few years the dependency of Kowloon has not been regarded as likely to prove of much importance except as a camping and exercise ground for troops. But this illusion has been dispelled. Although few facilities have been afforded till lately, ground has gradually been taken up, and buildings have been erected at Tsim-t'sa-tsui, whilst at Yow-mah-tee a large native populationhas collected. All this, too, in spite of one grand failure, when Sir RICHARD MACDON-NELL's bungalow—then in course of erection which the Peak so obstinutely shuts out from Victoria. A number of garden lots were purchased on a fourteen years' lease, and in the belief that the lesse would be extended several substantial bungalows have been erocted. Litterly building operations at Teim-t'sa-tsui have been carried on actively. Brick erections are becoming numerous, and mat-sheds are scattered thickly about. Two or three more substantial houses have been projected, and a large building to be used as not a question of class legislation at all, but of a club is fast rising near the Kowloon Hotel, while a flourishing institution is temporarily located in a mat-shed near the beach. A new praya has been redeemed from the sea, and flanked by a substantial wall, while several good roads traverse the settlement. Some of the houses are now quite surrounded by foliage, and the place is rapidly assuming the appearance of a cultivated village. At Yow-mah-tee the progress made or about to be made is even greater. What was a few years back a tiny fishing community is fast growing into a populous town, iThe place has recently been laid out with a view to its fifty feet wide, and laid at right ungles; while a grant of fifteen thousand dol. A memorial was prepared and forwarded to the Secretary for the Colouiss before the departure of Sir ARTHUR Kennedy, praying for the extension of these leases -which, asstated above, are for fourteen years only-on payment of the difference in price. Unfortunately, a report by the Surveyor-General, which we are informed was strongly in favour of the memorial, was inad vertently emitted, and Lord CARNARVON has replied stating that he sees no reason for making that there will be no difficulty placed in the way of renewal for a similar term. It was not thought likely that the Government would resume possession of the ground at the end of the term, but the reply of Lord CARNARYON is certainly disappointing, and decidedly calculated to check the growth of the directed against the natives. I carefully avoided Orders for Copies may be sent to the Daily place. Leases have been granted for a long going into the merits of any Ordinance, as Press Office, where it is published, or to the term in other parts of the peninsula, and it is that was beside the question. Properly understood, the conviction must be forced upon everyone that it is clothes of barbers and of tailors. The foreign costume is the outward and visible sign of the inward and invisible grace, which grace is respect for law. On the other hand, the nativo costume is the one, which covers all those who have no respect for law, but indulge in robbery and violence. Hence it is that although the ordinance specifically mentions Chinese, its real meaning is the wearers of native clothes. I am willing to make a bargain with "Si. nensis." Il be will out off his quene and dress in foreign costume, I shall promue a Chinese dress and run the gauntlet of the police during a night stroll .- If he will do the same I venture to say his sensitive feelings will never be ruffled by any interference from the police. THE GOVERNOR AND THE CHINESE TO THE EDITOR OF THE "DAILY PRESS." SIR,-You must have misunderstood the line any alteration in the leases, but intimating of my argument when you criticized my letter which appeared in your issue of Saturday. The object of my letter was simply to deny the assertion of your evening contemporary that there was no class legislation which was considered as objectionable by the Chinese, and to prove what I stated was true I quoted the Pass and Registration Ordinances, which are solely it was not unnatural to suppose, as leases should be probibited, and that no special law should be directed against any class of the comfor nine hundred and ninety-nine years had been granted in the same locality, that there stances. The principle being admitted, the only question that remains to be boped, however, that the Government here be disposed of, to use your own words, is, whether it is "possible, under the existing conditions, to do without special legislation for the Chinese." You seem to assume that it is impossible to de without it. I need scarcely remind you that the onus probandi rests with you, and unless you can show special circumstances calling for such legislation, your argu. ment falls to the ground. Yet few people in this busy age are capable of attaining to this state of mind. A man may love nature, he may long to tast of the delicious sense of dolce far mente, and yet all the while find himself held back from pure holiday contentment by the force of deeplyfixed habits of life. Thus there are tendencies of thought to be overcome. The mind must be able to free itself from the hold of customary ideas and interests, and this is often difficult enough. Then there are the results of the man's whole mode of life, the almost instinctive disposition to proceed methodically in the laying out of one's time, &c., and these nabits of order and punctuality may prove fatal to the quiet and serene enjoyment of leisure days.
